Crosshatch® Seating Family

Unexpected Composition

Don't be surprised if you have to look twice when you first encounter the Crosshatch Chair or Settee's barely-there silhouettes. "We have designed a wooden structure with a floating basket made from parachute cords," says Martin Bergmann of EOOS. "The cords are pulled down, and the chair becomes a system of internal tension. Without them, the chair would be unstable." Bergman and his colleagues knew that incorporating such an unexpected combination of materials into lounge seating would not only turn heads, but also draw people in.

A lattice of hand-strung cording creates a distinctive, transparent profile.

Striking a balance between industrial materials and craft techniques

Crosshatch Seating Family

DESIGNED BY EOOS

Simplicity. Functionality. Beauty. These qualities unify the Crosshatch Seating Family, from the hand-strung parachute cords of the lounge chair and settee to the pared-down, classic profiles of the side chair and stool. Punctuating executive offices, boardrooms, working lounges, and beyond, Crosshatch meets the diverse needs of people and the way we work today.

Beautifully Functional

The Crosshatch Stool and Side Chair reflect Geiger's approach to industrialized craft by harnessing state-of-the-art technologies to deliver precision with a hand-crafted feel. As a result, their minimalist forms allow their carefully considered details to shine: the rounded tops of the legs, a seat that appears to float, a gently curved hint of a backrest.

About EOOS

"For us, design is a poetic discipline," says Gernot Bohmann, who, along with Harald Gründl and Martin Bergmann, comprise the design firm EOOS. Based in Vienna, Austria, these three have been making poetry together in the form of furniture, objects, and spaces since 1995.
